Dianna Sanchez is the not-so-secret identity of Jenise Aminoff, also known to her children as the Queen of Sarcasm. Her middle-grade fantasy novel, A Witch's Kitchen, debuted September 2016. A Latina geek originally from New Mexico, she now lives in the Boston area with her husband and two daughters. www.diannasanchez.com

Elizabeth Crowens won First Prize in the Goethe Awards for Turn-of-the-Century Historical Fiction for Silent Meridian. Also a finalist for the Cygnus, Paranormal, Ozma/Fantasy and Eric Hoffer Awards, she currently writes a column, The Poison Apple, for BlackGate.com.

LJ Cohen is a novelist, poet, blogger, ceramics artist, and relentless optimist. After twenty-five years as a physical therapist, LJ now uses her clinical skills to injure characters in her Science Fiction and Fantasy novels. Her 7th novel, Parallax, was published in June. www.ljcohen.net

Morven Westfield writes supernatural fiction and non-fiction. Her fiction is influenced by The Twilight Zone and memories of Dark Shadows. Like many writers, she keeps a messy office, drinks way too much coffee, and watches too many cat videos. www.morvenwestfield.com

Author/journalist Randee Dawn has published dark, speculative fiction in Well-Told Tales and Fantasia Divinity. She is the co-author of The Law & Order: SVU Unofficial Companion; her short story collection's for sale in the dealer's room, Home for the Holidays. RandeeDawn.com

Tracy Townsend is the author of The Nine (Pyr, November 2017), her fantasy debut set in a world where theology is a science, three sentient species live in an uneasy truce, and the fate of humanity rests on the shoulders of nine unsuspecting individuals. www.tracytownsend.net

Trisha Wooldridge, former president of Broad Universe, writes short stories and weird poetry for anthologies and magazines that occasionally win awards. She's also edited two anthologies and over fifty novels. As child-friendly T.J. Wooldridge, she's published three scary children's novels. www.anovelfriend.com
